Already sold out at source, this new twelve from the NSI crew features the much anticipated collaboration between Tobias Freund and Ricardo Villalobos, two 10+ minute tracks situating themselves more or less at the halfway point between Freund's textured minimalism and Villalobos' love of long, slowly shifting percussive structures. "We Brought Our Friends" spans the a-side with a beautifully aquatic line in manipulation edging in and out of the mix, with a typically heady core that belies the fact that this is just some of the most developed, shuffling Minimal dance music you could hope to hear. "To Learn More" on the flip is heavier and more obtuse, a treated vocal narrating the track with varying degrees of oddness more or less from start to finish. A brilliantly narcotic session - lets hope there's more where this came from.
